

JAWI PERANAKAN MANSION

A stately and elegant Anglo Indian mansion. It took three years to bring back to life its original architectural elements of lime plaster walls, wood lattices, plantation shutters, cornices, architraves, Doric columns, and Adam's wheel window arches - so much a part of Jawi Peranakan Mansion's original design. The building is an eclectic mix of 18th/19th century British architecture, Muslim design features from the Mughal times accentuated with Indian ethnic motifs.

The rooms are outfitted with king size beds, cozy sitting areas, and daybeds demarcated by Muslim coloured glass screens. The bedheads are decorated with embossed Mughal styled tiles. To complete the look, there are roll top writing desks, Kelim rugs, handblock indigo printed textiles, lanterns, silk and wool Kashmir throws, and brass Mughal mirrors.
