MUNTRI GROVE

Muntri Grove is a hidden oasis accessible through a narrow laneway from Muntri Street but is barely discernible from the main road.

The architectural framework was maintained as close to its original form as possible with only minor additions to strengthen the structures as they are. Each house unit was transformed into two large rooms, one on the ground and one upstairs, each spanning an area of about 450 sq ft to afford wide, spacious rooms to guests. The 10th house at the corner was destroyed during World War II and the space was rebuilt to house an elevated swimming pool and breakfast area on the first floor and the reception area on the ground floor.
